

Liguang Wu –Professor of Nanjing University of Information Science and Technology, China

Liguang Wu is currently a professor at Nanjing University of Information Science and Technology (NUIST), a specially-appointed professor by the government of Jiangsu Province, the director of Pacific Typhoon Research Center (PTRC), the associate dean of School of Atmospheric Sciences of NUIST. He received his Ph. D from the University of Hawaii in 1999. He worked as an Atmospheric Infrared Sounder (AIRS) data specialist at DAAC/NASA and an associate research scientist at GSFC/NASA and University of Maryland at Baltimore County during 2000-2008. Liguang Wu's research interests include the formation, intensity and structure change and track of tropical cyclones and climate change of tropical cyclone activity. He has published more than 60 papers in referred journals. He is currently an associate editor of Advances in Atmospheric Sciences, an editor of Acta Meteorologica Sinica, Journal of Meteorological Science and Advances in Meteorological Science and Technology.