

KUNGHWA WANG, University of Maryland

Research Scientist in University of Maryland/ESSIC. Former President of COAA 2012 and Former Deputy Director of Central Weather Bureau in Taiwan. His main research area is Satellite Remote Sensing, especially in Microwave Temperature/Precipitation retrieval and Image processing system integration. He got Second grade work merit Award for public servant, given by Executive Yuen, Taiwan on 2003 and Work Merit Award for Excellent management and execution on upgrading Satellite ground system project, given by Central Weather Bureau, 2010, etc. He has been invited to be the author of three books about cloud and weather in Taiwan. He was two National University's adjunct Professor in Taiwan. He currently is main member in NOAA NPP/VIIRS instrument calibration and validation team.